El Consulting – Financial Services

In March 2004, the Economist Intelligence Unit survey of senior executives found a consensus on what defines a high-performance finance function.

The high-performance finance function, respondents agreed, is much more than just transaction processing; it is about developing and maintaining a service-oriented culture coupled with a strong capacity for strategic analysis.

By outsourcing some of your finance processes to Enhance Interest, your business can emulate said high-performance finance function; it allows you to switch from being just a steward to a strategist, focusing on your core competencies.
